

Brief Description of the Program

Career

The main task of psychology is to study facts, mechanisms and patterns of the psyche in a particular activity, in certain conditions and at a particular level of development.

Psychological support in modern society is becoming more in demand, and the profession itself is getting more prestigious and highly paid. Most people find it helpful to turn to a qualified specialist in a crisis situation.

Educational process

Students are intensively immersed in the profession starting from the first year of studies. They study the full range of modern psychodiagnostic methods, the current state of the branches of psychology in Russia and abroad, modern psychotechnologies to prevent deviations in social and personal status and development, to form attitudes aimed at harmonious development, productive overcoming of life difficulties, tolerance in interaction with the environment the world.

Disciplines

- ✓ Theory and Practice of Psychological Training
- ✓ Psychotechnology, Psychodiagnostics
- ✓ Psychology of Extreme and Crisis Conditions
- ✓ Psychological Counseling
- ✓ Social Psychology
- ✓ Developmental Psychology
- ✓ Family Psychology
- ✓ Psychology of Communication
- ✓ Career Psychology
- ✓ Basics of Legal Psychology
- ✓ Organizational Psychology

Practical training

Trainings and workshops conducted in the form of the annual practical "Psychological School" help students understand the nuances of their future profession. Thematic discussions, master classes conducted by leading specialists in the field of psychology, participation in international competitions and communication with potential employers form professional competencies among future specialists. Each year, students undergo practical training in psychological centers, educational organizations, and personnel services in Russian and foreign business structures as part of the practice of acquiring primary professional skills and the practice of obtaining professional skills and professional experience.

Career

After completing the educational program, you will be able to help people and yourself, namely, to analyze psychological properties and states, characteristics of mental processes; you will also be able to prevent deviations in social and personal status and development, provide psychological support in the functioning of people with disabilities, as well as to prevent occupational risks in various activities. You will help to cope with difficulties in learning, identify violations and abnormalities in mental development, the risks of asocial behavior, diagnose mental states arising in the process of educational and other activities. You will obtain knowledge about the role of psychological factors in maintaining mental and physical health, in the processes of upbringing and education, labor and organizational activities, interpersonal communication (in the family and in business); you will have the technology of forming installations aimed at harmonious development, productive overcoming of life difficulties.

The main areas of implementation in the profession can be education, medicine, sports, personnel services of Russian and foreign business structures.

Graduates will be able head of a psychological service, a psychological center. High-level specialists can set up their personal office or a company that provides psychological assistance to people in various difficult situations.