

Brief Description of the Program

Career

Professional activities to assist people in overcoming personal and social difficulties through support, protection, correction and rehabilitation is the subject of the Master of Social Work program.

Graduates have real opportunities to make a career in a short time, because people with such education are in great demand. It should be noted that not only state, but also commercial and non-state / public sectors are engaged in social work. While studying, students acquire skills in developing and managing social projects, writing grant applications.

Educational process

The main goal of the educational process is to prepare a specialist who meets the requirements of modern society. This is achieved through the formation of general cultural, general professional and professional competences with students in accordance with the requirements of the Federal State Educational Standard in this area of training.

When conducting practical classes in solving professional problems, a significant emphasis is placed on using project-based teaching methods; students in practice develop and implement socially-oriented projects aimed at improving the quality of life of a specific group of people who need assistance. Students carry out fundamental and applied research in the field of social work, develop teaching aids, recommendations on the organization of social work and social services for the population. They publish the results of their research in leading scientific journals.

Special trainings developing communicative skills and abilities that encourage personal growth are very essential.

Disciplines

- ✓ Methodology of dissertation research in the field of social work
- ✓ Pedagogy and psychology of higher education
- ✓ Theory and practice of management in social work
- ✓ Research seminar
- ✓ Qualitology in social work
- ✓ Methodological basis of social work technologization
- ✓ Information technology
- ✓ Social marketing
- ✓ Modern problem field of social work
- ✓ Methodology and theory of social work
- ✓ Social modeling, forecasting and design
- ✓ Theory and practice of social education

Practical training

The annual educational practice on obtaining primary professional skills, including primary skills and skills of research activities, is held in leading social organizations of Tambov region (Department of Social Protection and Family Policy, Department of Education and Science of the Administration of Tambov region, etc.) and the city of Tambov

(Committee for Protection of Public Health and Social Development, Committee for Education of the Administration of the city of Tambov, etc.).

The content of an individual internship plan is developed for each student. This plan is drawn up jointly by university teachers and employees of social institutions. Social workers engaged in practical work can regulate the curriculum depending on changes in social sphere.

A distinctive feature of the master's internship program is research work. The main tasks of the research work include conducting independent, creative research analyzing the main trends in the development of the theory and practice of social work in Russia and abroad; development and implementation of modern effective social technologies and projects to solve current life problems of individual and society.

Career

The degree and qualifications obtained after completing the master's degree program 39.04.02 Social Work with specialization in Organization and Management in Social Work allows graduates to make an academic career. They can also continue their education and do research in the field of social work, studying in TSU graduate school in the following programs:

13.00.02 - Theory and Methods of Training and Education (Social Work – the level of higher professional education)

13.00.02 - Theory and Methods of Training and Education (Social Education).

On completing the course graduates will be able to perform such job functions as planning, management and control of the organization as a whole and its structural divisions; control of effective spending of financial resources of the organization; monitoring of people's satisfaction with the availability and quality of social services.